

Media Factsheet on SkillsFuture Mid-Career Support Package: Career Advisors Initiative

As part of the SkillsFuture Mid-Career Support Package, the Career Advisors Initiative aims to strengthen the confidence of mid-career workers who may be facing uncertainties and anxieties as they navigate new professional pathways amidst the ongoing economic and industry transformation.

Through the Career Advisors Initiative, mid-career workers will receive peer-level support and career guidance from volunteer Career Advisors, who will draw upon their own experience in their respective sectors and roles. Participating mid-career workers will be able to glean important and useful insights on industry trends and emerging skills, thereby helping them make better informed career decisions. Where necessary, the Career Advisors may also connect these individuals to career planning resources.

Workforce Singapore will work closely with sector agencies and various professional communities to build and grow the group of volunteer Career Advisors which will comprise industry veterans with rich work experience. They will receive training by way of masterclasses and programmes to be equipped with coaching and mentoring skills, as well as knowledge about the various policies and relevant government schemes.

The Career Advisors Initiative will commence with the ICT and Finance sectors. More details will be announced in due course.