

EXAMPLES OF WORKFARE BONUS ELIGIBILITY AND AMOUNTS RECEIVED

Example 1:

Mrs A is a Singaporean, and aged 50 years on 31 December 2006. She lives in a 3-room HDB flat with an Annual Value less than $10,000. She worked for 6 months in calendar year 2006.

She is an employee. Based on her CPF contribution records, she earned a total of $3,600 in calendar year 2006. Her average monthly income for this period is therefore $600.

Mrs A is eligible for $600 of Workfare Bonus for work done in 2006.

Example 2:

Mr B is a Singaporean, and aged 40 years old on 10 January 2006. He lives in a 4-room HDB flat with an Annual Value less than $10,000. He is self-employed, and operates his business from January 2006 to December 2006. That is, he worked for 12 months in 2006.

Based on his income declared to IRAS, his annual income for 2006 is $16,800. Hence, his average monthly income for 2006 is  $$16,800/12=$1400$ .

Mr B is eligible for $200 of Workfare Bonus for work done in 2006.

Example 3:

Mdm C is a Singaporean who turned 45 on 20 October 2006. She was previously unemployed but worked as a hawker stall assistant from March 2006. She lives in a 3-room HDB flat with an Annual Value of less than $10,000. Based on her income declared on the WBS Income Declaration Form, she earned an average monthly income of $450 for work done in 2006.

Mdm C is eligible for $600 of Workfare Bonus for work done in 2006.