

An unexpected crisis in the workplace may result in confusion and distress among employees, adversely affecting their morale. It is important for businesses to display compassion in a crisis to encourage recovery and foster resilience amongst their employees. Here are some ways to do so:

PRACTICING SELF-CARE

their own emotional needs in times of crisis. This involves being mindful of their emotions, learning to articulate what is affecting them, as well as being able to know when their limits for stress have been reached. This allows employees to have a better handle on facing the crisis at hand.

Encourage your employees to practice self-care by attending to

BUILDING COMPASSION

INTO COMPANY PRACTICES

stakeholders as well. RALLY FOR UNITY In the wake of a crisis, encourage your colleagues and employees to support those who may have been directly affected by the attack, or contribute to the nation's recovery efforts, if they can do so. Acts of compassion, such as uniting to provide goods or offer services to affected workplaces, can further help inculcate a sense of cohesion and rebuild the community. This is important in crisis recovery efforts.

humility in your crisis messaging to employees and other

Learn more on how you can better prepare your company against the evolving threat of terrorism through SGSecure@Workplaces. Also, find out how the various organisations in Singapore are enhancing workplace preparedness under SGSecure@Workplaces through our featured stories.

contact the ISD Counter-Terrorism hotline at 1800-2626-273 or report via the SGSecure app.

PREPARE YOUR WORKFORCE

If you know or suspect that an individual is radicalised, promptly

-SGSecure@Workplaces Bulletin-

PROTECT YOUR WORKPLACE

* PARTNER YOUR COMMUNITY

STAY ALERT, STAY UNITED AND STAY STRONG. BE PART OF THE SGSECURE MOVEMENT.

This SGSecure Bulletin ("Bulletin") is available free-of-charge. This Bulletin may be printed or downloaded onto electronic, optical or similar storage media for private research, study, or in-house use only. Any person who seeks to copy or reproduce any material from this Bulletin must do so accurately and acknowledge the Ministry of Manpower of Singapore as the source of such material, without misquoting or misleading any form of information. To unsubscribe from the Bulletin, or to provide feedback, please email us at SGSecure_Workplaces@mom.gov.sg.